English mine-owners are allowing strikers to return at the old wages upon condition that they will accept a reduction of 10 per cent in December.

Gordon in his speech at Edinburgh spoke 17,400 words. So long as he can do that, the "Grand Old Man" must be pronounced a pretty lively British citizen.

The official organ of the Vatican has just declared that the Pope owns several millions of dollars' worth of land in London, from which he derives a princely income.

M. Zola has had an enthusiastic reception from the Lord Mayor and people of London, where a man was recently sent to prison for publishing one of his works.

The cremation of the body of the Socialist, Benoit Morel, has revived interest in this method of disposing of the dead, which thus far has not made much progress in France.

The Jura-Simplon Railway Company has contracted with the Brand Company of Hamburg and Lohrer & Co. of Zurich to cut a tunnel through the Simplon at a cost of $20,000,000.

Probably the most remarkable knife in the world is that in the custody of the factory of Joseph Rodgers & Co., in Sheffield. It has ten blades, and ten blades are added every ten years.

The long-distance telephone has been put in operation between Norway and Sweden, and his Majesty at Christiania can communicate directly by word of mouth with his ministers at Stockholm.

In Germany, when the vote of the jury stands six against six, the prisoner is acquitted. A vote of seven against five leaves the decision to the court, and in the case of eight against four the prisoner is convicted.

The great steamship plying between Australia and England are provided with freezing machinery, by which mutton, frozen, is preserved in London in fine condition. Australian flowers preserved in ice are also carried to London.

Railway tickets may be purchased in London or on the Continent at the average rate of about 44 pence. Two hundred guineas was offered for a white specimen, found last year in a California mine which had been closed for thirty years.

According to the British census, recently published, the number of Americans resident in the British Isles is 25,226, of whom about 20,000 were born in the United States. In France, according to the French census, there are only 7,000 Americans.

In all England and Wales there are only 101 women physicians and surgeons. There are almost as many women chimney sweeps, and 205 women plumbers, while the number of women railway porters is practically the same as of physicians.

The People's Place of London, the great triumph of Socialistic philanthropy, it is now reported, has proved a failure through mismanagement, all of the officers avoiding responsibility wherever possible.

The census of England and Wales was taken by requiring every household to report, on a blank form furnished for the purpose, full particulars of every person in the house on a certain night in May. In this way the census was practically completed in one night.

An expedition is to be undertaken in Uganda by Scott Elliot for the purpose of exploring the botanical, geological and other natural features of the Rwenzori range. A grant has been obtained for this purpose from the Government Grant Committee of the Royal Society.

A recent publication of the Imperial Geographical Society of Russia contains the surprising announcement that the Chinese—a race of 7,000 people, in the department of Trans-Government of Tiflis know nothing of the use of money as a medium of exchange. The salt of valuation among this primitive people is the cow.

A main-trunk telephone line is at present under construction between London and Glasgow, passing through Nottingham, Sheffield and Leeds. As there is already telephone communication between Glasgow and Belfast, and between Belfast and Dublin, when the new line is completed, communication between Dublin and London will be possible.

The order by fire still exists in Lahore as a religious ceremony. Quite recently a number of Mohammedan devotees passed through a big fire, receiving part of the Koran, which they believed would protect them from all injury. A few came through unhurt, while those who were stooped or had their feet blistered were considered to be suffering from their sins.

WIFE A D OTHERWISE.

(COMPILED FROM VARIOUS SOURCES.)
It takes a strong man to hold his own tongue. It takes more to satisfy his wife than to feed a family.

The hungry man at the table is ready to take everything's part.
A girl should marry for protection instead of for revenue only.

It takes only a single vote to pass a good resolution.
Men who mean business do not waste much time saying so.

The men who talk most about raising the devil could not raise 50 cents.
Many a man owes his success in life to the advice he didn't take from others.

To what base uses we may return a ratio, as Hamlet observed, is apparent by about 10 to 1.
An Anarchist is a person, not a member of Congress, who persists in talking when he ought to be at work.

Mr. Wilson has a pistol which he feels sure would belong to one of the best families, because it always talks when any one begins to brag.
Remembered Youth—May I hope to find a place in your heart? Lady Love (in a stilted voice)—If you hustle. There are only a few choice locations left.

Sleepy Citizen—What do you want in my house? Boring (resenting tone)—I want money. Sleepy Citizen—Good Lord! Give us your hand—so do I.

When a man said to old Dr. Johnson that he thanked God for his ignorance, the blunt old doctor replied: "You certainly have much to be thankful for."

Drew Blood—Amy, you are looking brighter than ever, dear Josephine (immensely pleased)—Oh, thank you Amy—How wonderfully you have been preserved.

"I never give money to beggars on the street," said the paterfamilias. "But, my dear sir," returned the beggar, "I can't afford an office in these hard times. You expect too much."

A MODERN REPRISAL.
Few men on this terrestrial ball
Less reason have at fate to flout.
He liv'd and died esteemed by all—
You see he never was found out.

Fin de Siècle Love—Maud—Why did you break off your engagement with Charles? Ellen—Well, you see, he would wear thin and neckties which didn't become my complexion.

YETI FALL APART.
In the heart of the Garden of Eden,
So lovely, so sweet and serene,
The first pair, rounded and mellow
Fall apart as seen.

A Nice Disposition—Blunkerton—Miss De Lante's father was of Hibernian descent, was he not? Pigelette—Oh, no! Just a common Irishman. The family are not at all wealthy.

He Never Walks Now—Bridget's wife said she never pretends to walk to his place of business now that he has a bicycle. "An expert rider, eh?" "Not much," he's going on crutches.

SHE LEARNED.
She knew not how to cook, she said
In accents far from gay,
But afterward, when they were wed,
She roasted him each day.

"Janette, I'm afraid you are a vain little wife.
You gaze into your mirror so much.
You on high to blame me for that 'I haven't your advantage.' 'What's that?' 'I can see my face without looking into a mirror.'"

ONLY A MATTER OF TIME.
My heart is all in a flutter,
For she promised to me to be true;
But I fear some one else will yet win her—
She's my baby, and only just two.

Why He Wasn't Called—"Did you call the gentleman in No. 71? He wants his breakfast at 7 o'clock." "Bell Boy—No, he don't." "Did he say so?" "Bell Boy—No; he blew out the gas last night."

HOW THE CALIFORNIAN BEAT THE ROBBER.
"Who steals my purse steals trash,"
He said, with a jovial air,
When the train-robbler called for cash.
He was on his way from the Fair.

"Cholley Sappy made love to Nell, and was accepted while they were riding around the World's Fair. 'Wooded Island' in one of those lovely places. 'Just the romantic!' 'Yes. She might call him her 'World's Fair' sweetheart, too.'"

The Courage of His Convictions—She—Papa says it is the duty of the rich to economize in these hard times. If only to set the poor a good example. He—Does he practice what he preaches? She—Yes; he has discharged half the hands in the factory.

Oh, Bridget, did mamma have another husband but for the married man? "Yes, darling, but he died, yer see." "Oh, Bridget, I'm so sorry mamma lost her husband!" "Faith, an' y'd better be glad, Bessie. If he'd lived he might a made ye a cruel slip-feyther."

A Costly Servant—Gentleman—Here's a dollar for you. Go and enjoy yourself at my expense. Servant—Sir, what a poor opinion you must have of me! Let me assure you once for all that ever since I have been in your service I have never been able to enjoy myself in the way you mean—not the smallest kind of a spree—for less than $2.

COMPENSATION.
If at first you don't succeed,
Try, try again,
For perseverance overcomes
All things of mortal ken;
And if you do not get the girl
You want, or till, I do you,
You're safe in betting you will get
The girl that's wanting you.

Better Use—A candid and well-meaning professor, who had witnessed the performance of a little play in a private house in which his hostess had taken the leading part, met the lady as she came from behind the curtain. "Madam," he said, rushing up to her, "you played excellently. The part fits you to perfection." "Oh, no, Professor," said the lady, modestly; "a young and pretty woman is needed for that part." "But, madam," persisted the professor, "you have positively proved the contrary."

THE GROWING SHORTER AND SHORTER.
Her mother named her "Mary," that good, old-fashioned name,
And all through school she wore it, contented with the same.
But when she'd graduated and left the school behind,
She dropped the "r" and "May" became—
"was so much more refined."
She's married now and, if the hands of her clock are true,
Still more her name has been reduced—her youngest calls her "Ma."

JACK KNOWLES' FORTY FRIENDS.

A friend in need is a friend indeed, says the old saw. Quite so. Fair weather friends are plentiful enough, goodness knows; the kind that drop in on you, talk to you, bother you, and borrow things from you; the kind that never bring back that fine shilling, but ask for five more "just to make it ten," that breed of friends, I say, are as thick as flies over a dung heap.

At the end of the world, where the sun and moon are down on your neck, who put their shoulders against your cart wheel at a nasty spot in the road—why, you want to hunt for them with spectacles and a lantern. Yet, after all, such friends do exist, and forty of them turned up, without any hunting, when Mr. Knowles needed them badly. How it happened he tells us in the following statement.

I, Jonathan Knowles, of Totton Pen, near Ramsey, Hants, do solemnly and sincerely declare as follows:—I was, some time ago, a healthy man up to April, 1889, when I began to feel ill. At first I felt dull, low-spirited and had no energy. I had a poor appetite and for days and days could eat nothing. What I did eat lay like lead on my chest. I had a gnawing, sickening feeling at the pit of the stomach, and was constantly sick, vomiting up a green fluid. At times I was so weak and dizzy that I could not get down on my feet, and my head was as if it were being pulled up by a string. My hands and feet were always cold, and clammy sweat used to break out all over me. I never felt warm even when I sat before the fire. Next a hacking dry cough, with severe pains at my chest and lungs, began to trouble me, and my breathing became short and hurried. I soon got so weak that I had to give up my work, for I could only walk a few yards without stopping to take my breath. The cough and shortness of breath got gradually worse and worse, and I began to lose flesh rapidly. At first a doctor from Ramsey came to see me, he gave me medicine and cod liver oil, but held out no hope of my getting better, after attending me three months he recommended me to go to the hospital. I got a recommendation from my mother, Mr. David Corbett, Wellington House, St. Mary's, and went to the Peterborough Infirmary. I had to be taken in a trap to the railway station, such was my weak state. The doctors at the Infirmary made me stripped and sounded my lungs, and said one of my lungs was almost gone, and the other was in a consumption. They gave me medicine, also cod liver oil, but nothing did me any good. After being there three weeks and treatment for three months I was discharged as incurable. My wife and relations now lost all hope of my ever getting well again, and everyone who saw me looked upon me as being in a coffin. My chest had sunk and I had wasted away until I was only a shadow of my former self, you could even see the bones through my flesh. I was nothing but skin and bone, having lost three stone in weight. I got up every day but had to sit in an arm-chair all day long. I could only move a few yards and then with the aid of a stick. In this half-dead, half-living state I continued for nearly two years and was looked upon as doomed. During the latter part my wife did not think I should live from one week to another, and friends who came to see me used to say, "Poor Jack will never come out alive again." In December, 1890, when I was at my worst, a neighbour of mine, Mrs. King, true Briton, told me of a medicine called Mother Selig's Cough Syrup and gave me half a bottle of it. I had no faith in anything doing me any good but I took it. Having been so long out of work I could not get money for more of the Syrup. So strongly were my friends convinced that the medicine would do me good that a lady of the name of Selig, who had 40 people subscribed to enable me to get a further supply, Mr. King got the Syrup from Mr. J. Freeman, Chemist, Ramsey, and kept me supplied with it. After I had taken three bottles of the Syrup I felt better. I kept on with the medicine and gradually got stronger and stronger, and I was able to go to work. Of course it took a long time before I properly got up my strength. I am now doing any kind of work, and feel no stronger than I often walk 14 miles a day, for which I thank God and Mother Selig's Syrup. Everyone in the district is astonished at my recovery. I tell them all that Selig's Syrup has brought me back to life. I shall often be known of as one who has done so much for me, and I give permission to the proprietors of the medicine to make what use they think fit of this statement.

statement, and I make this solemn declaration conscientiously believing the same to be true. By virtue of the Statutory Declaration Act, 1835 (Will IV., c. 62).

Subscribed and declared at Peterborough, in the County of Northampton, this 20th day of January, 1893, before me, (Signed) JONATHAN KNOWLES.

A COUNSELLOR-AT-LAW.
Office in the Supreme Court of Judicature in England.

You take notice of course that Mr. Knowles makes a solemn legal declaration to the truth of his remarkable story. It is so full of suggestive facts that I could write a book about it. But there is no time now to do that. The points to remember are these—If the doctors thought "Poor Jack" had got well, he had no consumption. A man who can now walk 14 miles a day has got two good lungs. Doctors have no business to make such blunders and so patients out of all courage and hope. But there! Ignorance is ignorance, no matter where you run across it. What ailed Mr. Knowles was indigestion and dyspepsia—nothing else. The cough and loss of flesh were symptoms of that, not of the destruction of lung substance. Next, keep bearing in mind that all our common maladies signify that our machinery for digesting food is out of order. It is so when it doesn't look so, the same as when it does.

That is the secret of the success of Mother Selig's Syrup. It cleanses the system and the pipes, and then the water of life runs clear and sweet. Those 40 sensible friends believed in that.

Mr. J. Knowles is a very respectable hardworking man. He is a farm labourer and has a small allotment of land which he cultivates. The persons who subscribed to get him the Syrup are principally farm labourers and farmers residing in the district of Ramsey. The case is well known to all the people round about where Knowles lives. Mrs. Knowles, in speaking of her husband's long illness, stated that she never for one moment expected his recovery. She said that he gradually dwindled away, and herself and children could not take their meals for tears when they saw the dreadful condition Mr. Knowles was in, for they expected losing him every week.—(Ad.)
